

SENIOR CLASS PLAY RANKS WITH REST OF SEASON'S COMEDIES

"All-of-a-Sudden Peggy" is Really Worth While Comedy Executed As Well As It Is by a Company of Professional Broadway Stars.

Everyone who saw the Senior Class play "All-of-a-Sudden Peggy" at the Washington Opera House Friday night was agreeably surprised at the splendid manner in which it was presented by the cast of Senior Class members.

The comedy contains many of the features of those two popular comedies "Clarence" and "Oh Daddy" and the members of the cast were selected for their special fitness for their parts. Miss Rosalind Gant, instructor in English at the Maysville High School, has demonstrated her ability as a producer and in her choice of the characters she was indeed fortunate.

Every member of the cast filled his or her part perfectly and the show moved unusually smooth for a home talent in its first presentation. Among the female characters Nan Chenault as "Peggy," Mary C. Poffitt as "Lady Crackenhorpe" and Mildred Procter as "Mrs. O'Mara" divided honors, with Nan Chenault in the stellar role every whiff of good in her lines and expression as a professional could possibly have been. Albert Knox as "Jimmy," Joe Wadsworth as "Anthony" and John Strode as "The Major" divide first honors among the male members of the cast. Albert Knox displayed an ease behind the footlights unusual in amateurs while Joe Wadsworth took his very hard part easily. Charlie Day was a charming young man and Georgia Simons, although on the stage but once, was all her part demanded of her. Milton Russell made but few appearances but took well to the happy-go-lucky part he delineated. William Rice and Thomas Pickett as house men were quite as stiff as their parts would require and handled themselves well.

Everyone who had anything to do with the presentation of this class play is to be heartily congratulated. It was really a success and it requires no stretching of the truth to say that and mean it.

The High School orchestra helped make the evening pleasant by its music.

WHEAT SHOWS BIG INCREASE OVER LAST YEAR IN KENTUCKY

Rye and Hay Also Show an Advance—Grain in Kentucky Comes Through Winter in Good Shape.

The condition of Kentucky's wheat crop indicates a probable production of about 7,851,000 bushels this season, compared to 5,610,000 bushels last year according to the May crop report issued Friday by the U. S. Bureau of Crop Estimates in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna.

Probable rye production is estimated at about 505,000 bushels, compared to 480,000 bushels last year; and hay of all kinds about 1,611,000 tons compared to 1,508,000 tons grown last year. Actual production this season may prove greater or less than these estimates, depending on whether conditions are particularly favorable or unfavorable between now and threshing time and hay harvest, the report shows.

Wheat and rye in most counties came through the winter in good condition, but farmers in most of the wheat-growing counties report that wheat has been injured some by the late frosts and cold wet weather this spring. Kentucky's wheat acreage left for harvest now is estimated at 693,000 acres compared to 550,000 finally harvested last year, but some farmers report an intention to "hog down" wheat if the price should be very low or a poor yield in prospect at harvest time. Condition this month is 93 per cent. of normal, compared to 71 per cent. this time last year, and a ten-year average of 86 on May 1. Rye condition is 95 per cent. of normal, compared to a ten-year average of 90 per cent. May 1.

The very early spring was generally favorable for plowing and other spring work, but the recent rains and cold weather have been general almost throughout the state, so that plowing is only 69 per cent. completed, compared to 71 per cent. usually done by May 1. Fifty per cent. of spring planting was finished by May 1, compared to 45 per cent. usually done by May 1. Pasture is 93 per cent. of normal compared to the ten-year average of 86. Twenty-five per cent. of last year's hay crop in Kentucky, (or 337,000 tons) is still on farms, compared to about 157,000 tons May 1, 1920.

Live stock losses during the winter were unusually light, except in some localities, and the spring condition of stock in general is above average, according to the report. Losses from each 1,000 head during the winter and spring were: Horses and mules, 13; cattle, 22; sheep, 36; lambs, 48; swine, 30. The average losses during the last ten years have been: Horses and mules, 19; cattle, 33; sheep, 56; lambs, 73; swine, 63.

TAG DAY BRINGS MANY DOLLARS INTO KY. HOME FUND

Young Ladies on Streets and in Banks and Stores Tag Many During the Day and Greatly Increase County's Fund.

Mason county's contribution to the state-wide fund for the purchase of "Federal Hill", the birthplace of "My Old Kentucky Home" was greatly increased Saturday by committees of young ladies who stationed themselves on the streets and in stores and banks and tagged scores of people throughout the day from whom they received contributions toward the fund.

Colonel J. Barbour Russell, chairman of the Mason county committee, Saturday announced that he now did not fear in the least that Mason county will very soon, if not today, go over the top in its apportionment to this splendid cause.

Mason county wants to have its full share in making this, the only state shrine in Kentucky possible. No more patriotic citizens could be found willing the old Commonwealth during the World War than the good people of Maysville and Mason county and in this effort they are demonstrating that they are quite as loyal to their own Commonwealth in a peace-time effort of this sort.

The license numbers on the car show it is from Washington county Kentucky and Chief Ort is now endeavoring to locate the owner.

OUR POLICY:

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the county as a whole.

THE NATIONAL ANTHEM.

Congressman Linthicum of Maryland has introduced a bill to make "The Star Spangled Banner" the national anthem. And the music begins—a medley of comment pro and con on the proposal.

If Congress can make a piece of paper a dollar—with enough back of it to support the legislation—why not make the well known song, words and music, an anthem? Most Americans will accord to congress the moral, legal and musical right and stand up and applaud when congress has officially made Francis Scott Key's immortal words the national air and the patriotic song for the country.

There will be notes of objection. It will be said that the words, however shot through with the colorful spirit of a sacred, supreme sentiment of patriotic fervor, lack the serious exaltation of great and solemn devotion as, for example, marks the words of "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Reply will be made that there are objections to "America" on the grounds of its striking similarity to the hymns of some other nations. There will be the "unsingability" of "The Star Spangled Banner" brought forward as an objection to the adoption of Key's inspiring song as the national air; but it will be rebutted that Americans "have" sung it, "are" singing it, and "will" continue to sing it as long as they are citizens, aspiring and nervy, of the "land of the free and the home of the brave."

It will be cited that Americans are free to sing anything they please about the "red, white and blue" and that they have the temerity to tackle any old song no matter how difficult it may be to get in all the words and syllables to match the notes. Perhaps it will be well to adopt a difficult one—just to prove to the world that Americans can do anything. And then there is the final, conclusive, unanswerable argument in favor of "The Star Spangled Banner"—its absolutely, incontrovertibly demonstrated Americanism in the very first two words of the lines. No other people on the face of the earth would have had the originality, the nerve, the daring to begin a national song with "Oh, say!"

Let congress go ahead and legislate "The Star Spangled Banner" as the national anthem. Most of us have been rising to our feet when the band struck it up, anyhow—just as we've been rising at the first bar of America! If anybody else can get in all the words without tripping up his musical feet and falling down and breaking his record, we all can. It may help a lot to keep out objectionable foreigners, who find the language a puzzle even in the matter of everyday conversation, to compel them to learn and sing "The Star Spangled Banner."

BETTER TIMES IN EUROPE.

Encouraging news comes from Europe of the gradual recovery of the allied countries from the damage caused by the war. According to official announcement Great Britain during the last two years has succeeded in reducing her external debt by nearly a billion dollars. During the past year she has paid about $350,000,000 to the United States alone, or almost a million dollars a day. During the fiscal year her income exceeded her expenditures by $1,100,000,000. This showing is all the more remarkable in that there has been a gradual reduction of taxation. A long step forward has been taken in the removal of the excess profits tax. Numerous practical economies have enabled the British government to lighten the burden of the taxpayer and yet increase the net income.

Turning to France, we find a general spirit of financial optimism prevailing based on internal conditions as much as on hopes of recompense from Germany. The public recently subscribed 1,200,000,000 francs to bond issues of mining companies in northern France. The money is to be used for reconstructive purposes, as were previous bond issues that were also liberally supported. According to the minister of finance, the French people have an annual investing capacity of 10,000,000,000 francs.

Astonishing as these figures seem, they are not incredible when one remembers the traditional thrift of the French that has been so signally manifested on many occasions. In February, last, France for the first time in seven years enjoyed a foreign trade balance in its favor. France is indeed on the high ground to prosperity, but that does not excuse Germany from paying to the limit for the damage she wrought to her invaded neighbor.

OBSERVATIONS.

Gunpowder still is regarded as high trump in Europe.

Mary Garden has made good as grand opera manager. She has got the money.

Germany holds one world's championship. She has received more ultimatums than any other country.

The system they tried to work against Babe Ruth worked—until the Babe hit the ball on the nose, which is the way with most systems.

Considering that former Senator Crane made the paper for a large part of the world's currency, his fortune of $8,000,000 is modest enough.

With $6,500,000,000 in savings banks the American people can stand quite a downpour, but that money also will be a huge factor in reviving trade and industry.

Secretary of Labor Davis conceives his job to be to make the Golden Rule attractive in practice. If he succeeds he will prove one of America's greatest moral benefactors.

A receivership for Germany is contemplated by the French who have been determined on occupation of the Ruhr regardless of acceptance or rejection of the terms. That is what comes of moral bankruptcy.

KEEPING HOUSE WITH YOUR FINGERS.

When the wily butcher, or the discreet grocer, or the craft vegetable-man tucks away some money steak, or doubtful flour, or weary lettuce into the corner of your market-basket, and you detect it upon the homeward track, pause and consider for a moment just what it would mean if you had not sharp eyes with which to do your daily marketing.

Yet there are hundreds of housekeepers throughout the country who must do all their marketing without eyes, and, in fact, do do it, and cook and sew and clean house, wash and iron—all without the faculty which the ordinary housekeeper considers indispensable.

This all seems incredible enough, but when the same housekeeper is, in addition, a business woman, who makes the daily pilgrimage to her place of employment every day, with the rest of the nine o'clock world, it becomes even less credible.

Any woman worker at the New York Lighthouse for the Blind, at 11 East Fifty-ninth street, however, can answer all your doubts. Here the majority of the women workers engaged in basket-making, weaving, and music teaching, are all housekeepers, do the family washing, ironing, and marketing, and are healthy, happy and smiling.

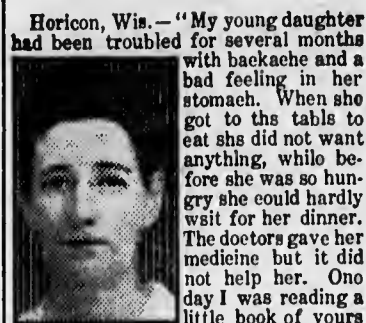

How do they manage it? It's the easiest thing in the world the blind housekeeper will tell you. In the morning, the first thing she does is to get her husband's breakfast. She doesn't time the things she cooks, she admits, but from all reports there is no kick from the husband. All her cooking is generally done by gas, and in order to avert accidents, the blind housekeeper always places the pot first on the burner and then lights it.

In the question of marketing, she finds no more difficulty than in anything else. To a sighted person, it might seem that confusion would arise for the blind, in money expenditures. To avoid this, Lighthouse workers are paid always in nickels, quarters, half dollars and one-dollar bills. The dime is omitted as it might too easily be mistaken for the cent. She is equally able to cope with such problems as home-sewing, and mending, and in many households, where all other members of the family have normal eyes, it is the blind member who is voted the best washer and ironer.

At the New York Lighthouse for the Blind, which was founded fifteen years ago by Miss Winifred Holt, and which has since seen the development of seven other Lighthouses established Horicon, Wis.—"My young daughter had been troubled for several months with backache and a bad feeling in her stomach. When she got to the table to eat she did not want anything, while before she was so hungry she could hardly wait for her dinner. The doctors gave her medicine but it did not help her. One day I was reading a little book of yours which was left on my porch and it reminded me that when I was a young girl I took several bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So she went to the drug store and got a bottle and after the second one she could eat and has not had backache since. In all she took six bottles of it. She goes to school and on Saturdays helps with the housework. She is a normal, healthy girl now and we recommend your medicine. You have my permission to publish this letter as a testimonial for the Vegetable Compound."—Mrs. FRANK SELCHERT, 150 Larabee St., Horicon, Wis.

The Committee for Lighthouses for the Blind, which is in charge of this work, is now carrying on a campaign for $2,000,000 in order to continue and enlarge this work among the blind here and abroad. President Harding, at his recent visit to the New York Lighthouse, accepted the Honorary Chairmanship of the campaign, and Franklin D. Roosevelt is chairman; Andrew D. TO PROBE SAN DOMINGO.

Washington, D. C.—Representative William E. Mason, of Illinois, the friend of oppressed peoples, has introduced in the House a resolution providing for an investigation of the present situation in the Republic of Santo Domingo.

Of the misrule brought about by former President Wilson, he quotes the late Theodore Roosevelt as saying just before his death:

"According to the principles Mr. Wilson has publicly laid down, they are as much entitled to the right of self-determination as the United States or France, and all our dealings with them should have been frank and above board. But in practice Mr. Wilson conquered them, killed large numbers of the people, deprived them of self-determination, and kept the action and the reason for this action absolutely secret."

Mason cites the fact that President Wilson on November 29, 1916, took military possession of the Dominican republic on the island of Haiti and has been in military control and possession of the people of the republic from that date until the present time; that there has been a variety of opinion as to the legality of his act, and that his high-handed procedure ought to be brought to a close.

New York Letter

by
Lucy Jeanne Price

New York. — Lost! The crown jewels of Russia! Once again! This time it's true. And it's a New York woman who has lost them. It came to light the other night when their loss was announced that $20,000 worth of these much-discussed Russian crown jewels have been in the proud possession of Mrs. Dorothy Caldwell Taylor of New York, who was formerly the wife of Claude Grahame-White, the English aviator. Eight large sapphires each set in diamonds, make up the loss. There were half of a $40,000 necklace which had been cut into two bracelets by Mrs. Taylor. While she was wearing them, this one bracelet slipped off her hand, as trinkets are liable to do. The necklace had been made by Saberg, a jeweler of Petrograd, who in the old days did such work for the Russian nobility.

Pretty soon New York is going to have so much home space that quite a few of our families will be able to have kitchens once more. Apartment house building increased 450 per cent. these past twelve months over the preceding twelve.

Do you remember all the calamities which were about to befall the nation if women took up jury duty? Well, listen to this, and think of the "old you so's": Raymond Taylor, a lawyer of Newark, N. J., just across our Hudson River, applied to the Orange District Court the other day to have a verdict rendered by a jury of women against clients of his, set aside because Lloyd Hearty, the opposing counsel, had taken Tessie Grand, of the jury, out to lunch. Miss Grand admits the lunch but denies any conversation about the trial. Furthermore, it seemed quite natural that she should be invited to lunch without any ulterior motive of that sort!

More than ever will New York this summer be the haven of the ambitious students of music and the girls from all over the country whose family and friends, sweethearts and neighbors have assured them that a future on the operatic stage awaits their choice. Free voice trials will be opened within a few days at the chorus school of the Metropolitan Opera Company. All one needs now in order to say that one has sung before Gatti-Casazza is the railroad fare to the metropolis and enough nerve to go through with the effort. It truly is a splendid opportunity for girls seeking operatic experience and training.

Pat Daly has come east of the Rockies for the first time in 31 years—since he started prospecting in the Northwest. Pat is the recent labor candidate for the legislature in British Columbia and in spite of that fact, he is down here in New York City conferring with his lawyer about a mining claim for $1,960,000. He is enjoying the visit; but he has grown so much interested in proving that jazz music originated in Ireland that he isn't giving his entire attention to that little less than two millions dollars. He went to a cabaret the other night and carried with him a tin flute which is his favorite companion, and for which he paid ten cents in Nome. His dinner companions persuaded him to pip up a bit on the tin whistle, and he did, with such great success that the orchestra stopped while he soloed his argument about the jazz.

Brook Pemberton, who had two big successes this season in "Miss Lulu Bett" and "Eater Madame" is leaving shortly for Europe to arrange for productions of the latter play over there. He has just announced that next fall he will present a play in which Lord Byron is the central character. It is entitled "The Pilgrim of Eternity." Joseph Schildkraut, now starring in "Lillian", will play the lead.

Anyone who watched the street on the first of May knew into what channel the "restlessness" has been turned, which had been talked of so much as about to take the form of "red" parades, or maybe even dynamiting. There was more or less excitement about this "restlessness" on the part of all that vast group of our friends who gaze at the stars and try to think of something to get real thrilled over. But no dynamiting nor rioting nor anything else picturesque took place. People just moved! They moved from uptown to downtown and downtown to uptown and one side of the street to the other. Nobody had a wish to upset affairs of the nation at all. It was just the same, old-fashioned restlessness that used to take the form of housecleaning and going fishing.

LUCY JEANNE PRICE

NO INSURPTION BY HARDING.

Washington, D. C. — The announcement in a Washington paper that President Harding will determine the succession to the chairmanship of the National Committee upon the resignation of Mr. Hays displays one more instance of failure of newspaper writers on the metropolitan press to comprehend the change that has taken place in national policies since the Harding administration was vested with power. It is the opinion expressed by the Republican Publicity Association in a statement issued recently, "Mr. Harding is not only a constitutional president technically, but his habits of thought and action are thoroughly consistent with the spirit of popular government as it has developed under the American system. He is not a dictator either in the affairs of the Government or in the affairs of his party. He seeks neither to usurp the duties of the legislative branch of the Government nor of the controlling committee of the Republican party. He shirks none of his own responsibilities nor seeks to absorb the responsibilities of others.

"These are characteristics which promise to make him one of the greatest Presidents of our national history. His Administration will not be spectacular. He will not frequently force himself into the limelight; but as an administration blessing the country with universal good feeling, steady and wholesome progress and strengthening of the Government in the service of the people, his will have few if any superiors.

"Those who thoughtlessly represent Mr. Harding as determining for the National Committee who shall be its chairman are not only doing the President an unkindly act but giving the people of the country a wrong conception of the character of man they have elected as their chief executive. Undoubtedly if the National Committee should ask Mr. Harding's opinion he would express an opinion just as would any other good member of the Republican party. But there is a vast difference between expressing an opinion upon invitation and assuming to act as the sole authority in determining who shall be the head of the National Committee.

"It is highly important that all the people of the country get a proper conception of the new relationship which the Government maintains toward them. We are to have less Government in business and more business in Government. Not only in their personal affairs, their private business and in their political activities are the people invited and urged to act on their own initiative, their own enterprise, and their own judgment, but they are assured that so long as they transgress no law enacted for protection of the public welfare they will meet no interference, no hindrance at the hands of the Government."

REVENUE RAISING PLAN PROPOSED BY J. W. GOOD

Chairman of Appropriations Committee Says Make Medicinal Liquor Help Pay Bills.

Washington, D. C. — Proposals for easing the burden on the taxpayers are urged by Representative James W. Good, of Iowa, chairman of the House Committee on Appropriations. They evidence the determination of the Republican majority to get at the problem at the earliest moment. He says:

"If we accept $4,000,000,000 as the amount required for the next fiscal year, from what source can we collect this amount of revenue with the least disturbance to business, and at a minimum of hardship upon the taxpayers? Broadly speaking, our tariff duties should be increased, the excess profits tax on the tax on transportation should be repealed, and the super tax on individuals modified. The revenue derived from the excess profits tax is no longer necessary; the loss in revenue through the repeal of the transportation tax can be supplied without hardship by an additional tax upon luxuries, such as an additional tax upon tobaccos, cigars and cigarettes. A tax levied upon these commodities equal to the tax levied by Great Britain on like articles would yield over $200,000,000 additional revenue, providing there should be no substantial reduction in consumption. Last year there was withdrawn from bonded warehouses almost 40,000,000 gallons of spirits for medicinal purposes, but which were used for beverage purposes. The restoration of the tax of $2.20 per gallon under existing laws should yield at least $100,000,000. A wheel tax on the 9,000,000 passenger carrying automobiles now in use, and for the convenience of which we are spending out of the Treasury approximately $100,000,000 in Federal aid to good roads, would produce without hardship $150,000,000. A light tax on the net earnings of corporations could be resorted to with a minimum of hardship to the public.

It will be observed that this plan does not take into consideration anticipated receipts on government loans to European powers, aggregating $10,000,000,000. Inasmuch as we are not at present collecting interest on these loans, and it is problematical when the countries indebted to the United States will be able to pay either interest or principal, it would be unwise to rely upon substantial payments in the near future.

GREAT WORK IS DONE BY SALVATION ARMY IN BIG CITIES

Salvation Army Is One of the Greatest Of Organizations For Good In America Today.

The Salvation Army is the most gigantic evangelistic movement for the common people in the world.

Recognizing neither creed, caste or color, it achieves where other agencies fail.

With 18,000 officers in 70 countries and colonies, it preaches the gospel of love and redemption in forty-two languages.

It has held 48,000 indoor meetings of which, in the United States, the attendance has been 5,949,454 and 34,000 street meetings with an attendance of 18,018,440 people.

Fully a third or 6,000,000 of this great army of the unchurched would never otherwise have heard a sermon.

In the United States alone, the Army has converted 32,738 persons as the result of the efforts of the Salvation Army workers in its 963 Corps.

In connection with its preaching has come the establishment of Relief Efforts and in the past year 10,735 families have been visited.

In order to facilitate its work, The Salvation Army issues 82 periodicals; its chief publication called the "War Cry" has a circulation of 6,171,940 in twelve months.

The Salvation Army conducts 53 hotels for men and two for women. In these establishments it has supplied 1,500,000 beds and 371,000 meals. In the year's span also 1,000 meetings have been conducted with an attendance of 22,170 people.

The Army reports 22,738 converts as the result of a year's work which means just that many less charges upon the public charity and that many more producers and good citizens.

The Salvation Army seeks those who will never seek the churches and they find them in the slums, path and streets in all degrees of destitution and desperation and indifference. The voice of the Army speaker or singer is the "Voice crying in the Wilderness," the lonely wilderness of the city streets.

So also in the prisons and jails, the poorhouses, hospitals and army camps the Gospel is carried in a spirit of fellowship and love that sooner or later arouses a spark of manhood in the lowest criminal.

Thus the Salvation Army supplements the work of the churches and indirectly recruits for them.

KID STAR HAS HISTORIC BLOOD

Lad Who Starred With Charlie Chaplin Is One of the Most Famed in the Nation.

Who is "Jackie" Coogan? The child that had so much to do with Charlie Chaplin's success in his great comedy, "The Kid," which was seen in Maysville recently.

Who is "Jackie" Coogan? A child with a goal, says Irvin Cobb, speaking seriously.

Who is "Jackie" Coogan? Why, simply mother's little darling, unspoiled, natural, unaffected, into mischief, says his mother. Mrs. John Henry Coogan, nee Dolliver, whose father was a St. Louis leather merchant, but who, herself, it may be, gave her son his early histrionic start by appearing upon the stage when she was four years old.

Who is "Jackie" Coogan? "He's a little man," says his father, at the Coogan home in Los Angeles, No. 1768 La Brea avenue. And he's not a bit upstage. Some one told me the kid had three personalities, "addo dthe parent." "I don't know about that, but he has a healthy appetite for playing with toys, only he always likes to build something practical, playing with what they call ' Erector' toys."

The father, too, is known to the state and before "Jackie" was a year old he had traversed the entire orbit of a well-known vaudeville circuit, with baby eyes and ears seeing and hearing his all-Irish father dance and spin the comedian's chatter. And, if wearied by father's contributions, there was water, right alongside, swelling the family purse with appearance in comedy skits. So there seems to be a lot of inherited talent in Charlie Chaplin's co-hidder for cinema fame.

And here's how "Who's Who" on the screen sizes up Jackie Coogan. John Henry Coogan, film star; born in Los Angeles, October 26, 1914, of English, Scotch, French and Irish descent. Reported salary $1,200 a week. Said to be third cousin to Lillian Ru-sell. As above, the "Who's Who" of the screen might read, noting the six-year-old child marvel, who, playing with Charlie Chaplin, has been set upon a pedestal of fame by perhaps the most famous of the cinema world's figures.

And "Jackie" Coogan is causing an even greater riot in his starring vehicle, "Peek's Bad Boy," 1921 edition, titles by Irvin S. Cobb, than he did in "The Kid," and when "Peek's Bad Boy" comes to Maysville, Oh Boy, what a reception "Jackie" Coogan will get. Such a famous "kid" is "Jackie" Coogan.

VIPER SNAKE INVADERS TOWN—IS DISPATCHED.

The quiet equilibrium of the town was treated to an unusual sensation on a recent Sunday morning when a full grown snake of the viper species hove in from somewhere onto the lot between the hands and the Traxel-Glascock cream station. Coasternation seized passers-by on the sidewalk as their attention was called to bold front presented by the reptile intruder, but fortunately some one took in the danger of the situation and the well-directed blow of a stone quickly put his vipership out of business. It is said there are others of the kind in the same vicinity, or near-about. —Mt. Olivet Democrat.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. MAY 15, 1921.

Topic: Working With Others.
1 Cor. 12:14-27.

REV. J. J. DICKEY.

The lesson text is a comparison of the church of Jesus Christ with the human body. Here it is in part. "For the body is not one member but many. If the food should say because I am not the hand, I am not of the body. It is not therefore not of the body. And if the ear should say because I am not the eye, I am not of the body; it is not therefore not of the body. If the whole body were an eye, where were the hearing? If the whole were a hand, where were the smelling? but now they are many members, but one body. And whether one member suffereth, all the members suffer with it; or one member is honored, all the members rejoice with it. For ye are the body of Christ, and severally members thereof." The body of Christ is not represented by church membership, but by those who are saved from sin and are real Christians. What striking and beautiful symbolism this! How closely related are the different parts of the body? And all Christians—real Christians—are thus related to each other.

The different members of the body go to work to help any member that may be injured in any way. So should it be with the members of Christ's body. What a lesson to genuine Christians? Also in Christian work there should be hearty cooperation. This is possible with people who are baptized with the Holy Ghost and are "members of the divine nature" and these are the only ones who can do this.

Human nature, unrenewed by grace, is too selfish to do this. Real brethren can dwell together in unity, no others can. This symbolism can be applied, then, only to those who are "born of the spirit." When one finds that he cannot cooperate or sympathize with real Christians, he should search for the cause. The difficulty in churches cooperating lies in the fact that such a large proportion of the church members are not Christians in a Bible sense. But this much churches can do, they can cooperate in moral movements, great evils can be thus abolished and society protected. This has been illustrated in the prohibition movement and in many other efforts to improve conditions of society.

The earliest between capital and labor will have to be settled at last by cooperation. It can never be settled until the interests of both are protected. Nothing is ever settled until it is settled right. It is only by cooperation or the union of great forces that great things are accomplished. Without disturbing the identity of the churches, much can be done by cooperation in the foreign mission fields. This is being done in colleges, printing establishments and by divisions of territory. In the home fields as much as is practical should be done. The interests of all mankind are interwoven. The world is really one family and each affects all. By the law of gravitation every atom of matter attracts every other atom, so with mankind.

Joe T. Bramel, retired bookkeeper, 108 West Front street, Maysville, says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been of great advantage to me and I contribute fourteen years of my life to them. It was some years ago that I found I had kidney trouble and suffered severely with it. After a long course of Doan's Kidney Pills I became well and had no trouble for many years. Just recently I noticed my kidney were again out of order and my system was generally weak. I knew it was a return of the trouble. I did not lose any time in getting a box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they have given me the same good results and I consider them a wonderful remedy." (Statement given November 15, 1916.)

On November 22, 1920, Mr. Bramel said: "I couldn't recommend a better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills after the benefit they were to me when I was about down and out with the worst form of kidney trouble. I gave a statement many years ago regarding the merit of this wonderful remedy. My cure has been a lasting one."
